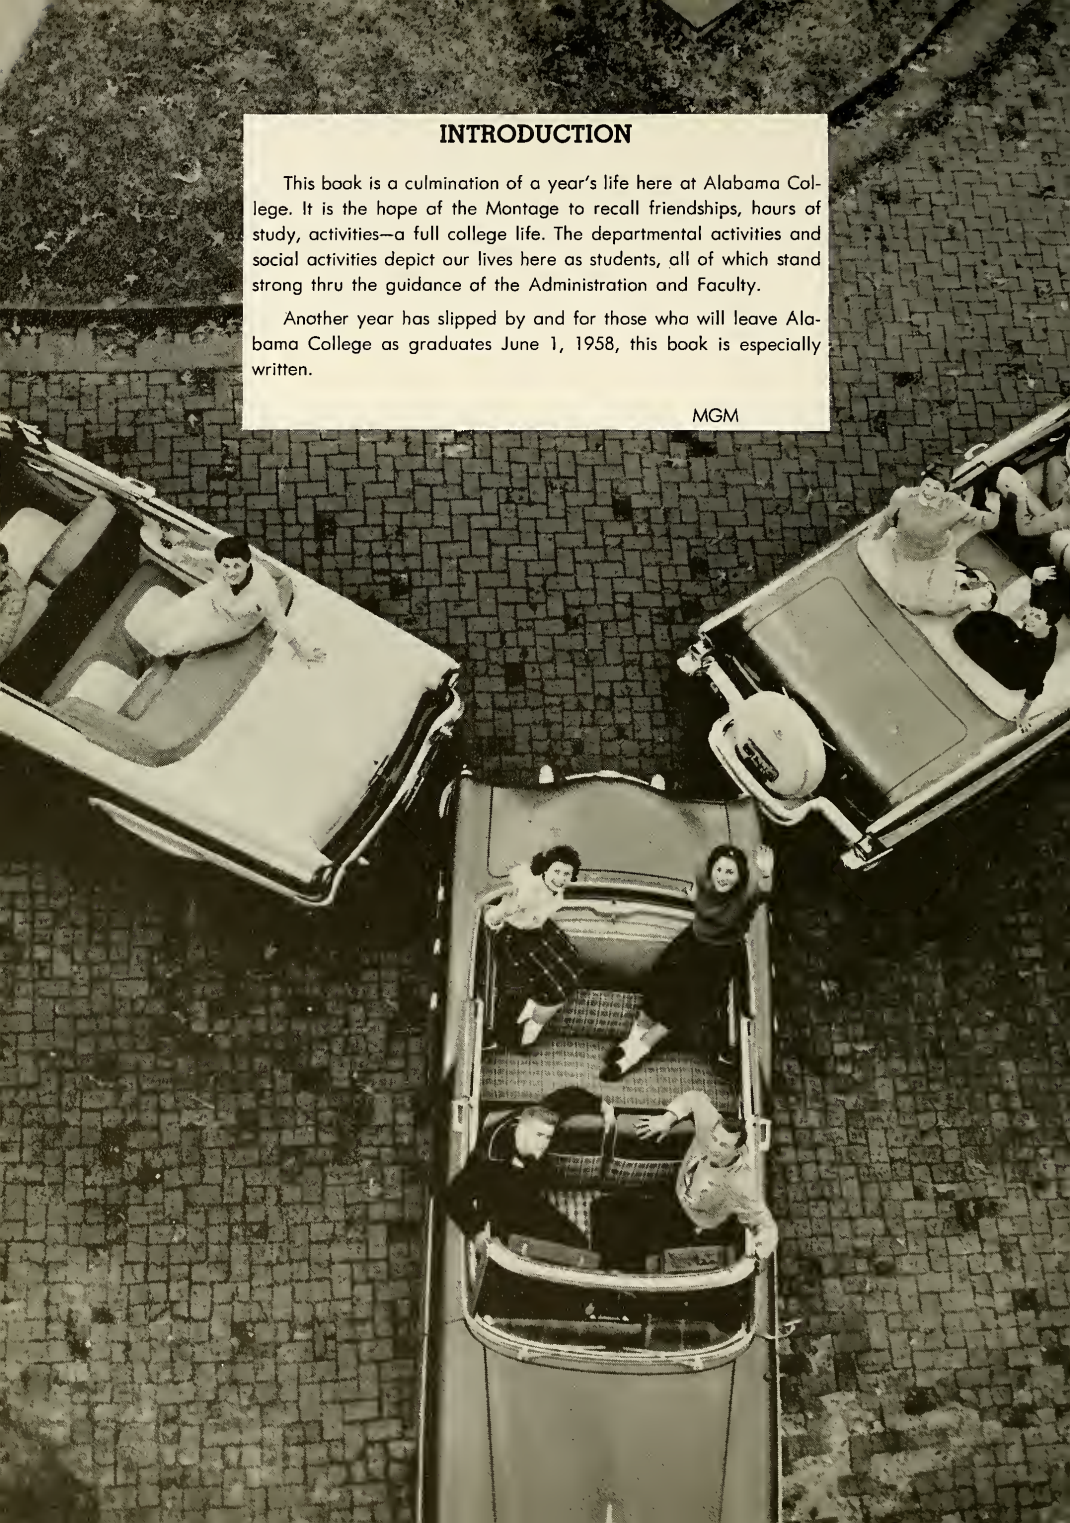
DR. KATHERINE VICKERY



INTRODUCTION

This book is a culmination of a year's life here at Alabama College. It is the hope of the Montage to recall friendships, hours of study, activities—a full college life. The departmental activities and social activities depict our lives here as students, all of which stand strong thru the guidance of the Administration and Faculty.

Another year has slipped by and for those who will leave Alabama College as graduates June 1, 1958, this book is especially written.

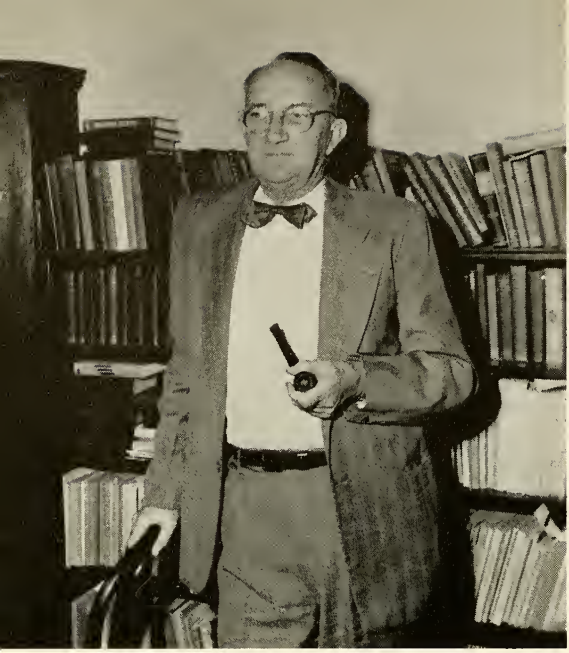
THE PRESIDENT

Our President, Dr. Howard M. Phillips, came to us this year from Emory University . . . and we can truly say that their loss is our gain. His wonderful winning personality complements the friendly atmosphere for which our campus is noted.

The wisdom and integrity with which Dr. Phillips has guided Alabama College through this strategic year have made him loved and respected by students and faculty alike.

DR. HOWARD M. PHILLIPS



DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

DR. M. L. ORR

Dean Orr, a man that every student knows and loves. For it is the name belonging to the man who is so much a part of life at A.C., for while having been in the education department previously, this is his first year as the cog of the wheel of curriculums. Busy with many administrative duties, Dean Orr always has time for the students, a quality which we so admire.

DEAN OF WOMEN STUDENTS

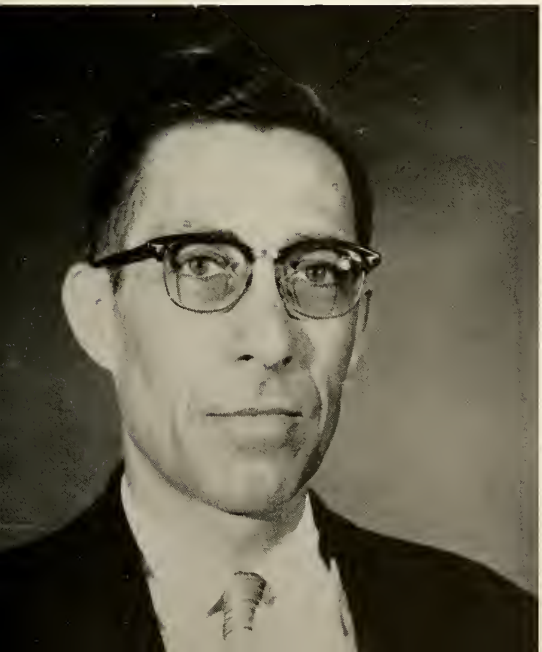
MISS IVA GIBSON

Friendly and gracious to everyone, Dean Gibson is one of the busiest persons on the campus. At anytime you may find her searching for new activities and improvements for the students to add to their life at A.C. In gratitude for her helpfulness, the students dedicated the 1958 college night to her.

DEAN EMERITUS

DR. T. H. NAPIER

Alabama College would not be the same without the friendliness and warmth of Dean Napier—a man who has given so much to our college. As a token of appreciation for his guidance to us the new men's dormitory was dedicated to him. We all say "Thank you" to Dean Napier for his years of service.



ACTING DEAN OF MEN STUDENTS

DR. JOHN B. WALTERS

Appointed in the first semester of this year as the counselor to the men students, Dr. Walters has ably filled his office.

The greatly increased enrollment of men students make such a position necessary and certainly Dean Walters, an excellent leader as well as scholar, has gained the confidence and friendship of both men and women students.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Student Government ot Alabama College is on outstanding student organization. Our Honor Code and our three branches of government serve os a model for mony other schools in their student governments. SGA elections are a big event—and even bigger since boys hove taken an active part in student government—and it is then that we choose our leaders who lead the mony conscientious followers in upholding our standards of good student government.

Treasurer: Miss Roma Creel Secretary: Miss June Capell Vice-President: Miss Shirley Stabler

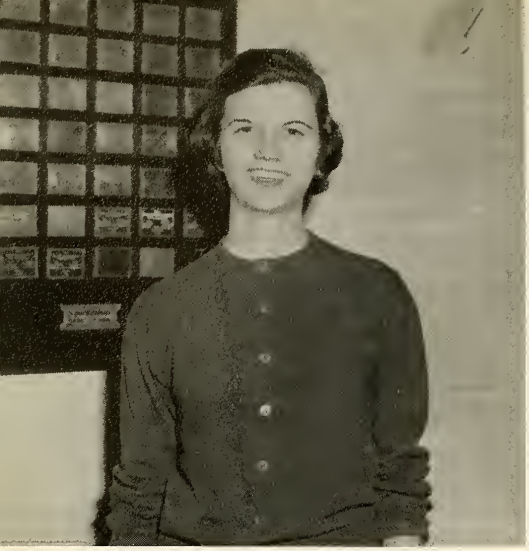
EXECUTIVE COUNCIL: Anne Elise Berry, Janice Wood, Lola Cooke, Lois Swindal, Marcella Stone.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The members of the "Exec" Council are those leaders which help to maintain the high standards of Student Government on our campus. During the transitional period of going co-educational and giving the male students a fair chance to participate in Student Government, the "Exec" Council has tried to lay the foundation for an outcome of good student government.

This has been a very important year in that the first male student was elected to the high offiice of President of the Student Government. We feel that the "Exec" Council has proven their abilities and in years to come they will be remembered for their hours of hard work.

MEN'S COURT: Arthur Garrett, Bobby Harrison, Clyde Hoffman, Ray Jones, Mike Mahan, Jerry Barton, Darrell Pharris, and Ken Rochester—President of Men's Court.



Milly Slater, President

The Student Senate is the acting body of Student Government designed to make amendments to our constitution so they meet the present needs of the college and students. The Senate members are those busy ones who keep the American flag on the quadrangle and the Purple & Gold flags indicating student body convocations. Besides passing rules and keeping flags in their places, they are also responsible for the tours of our beautiful campus for the Honor Scholarship contestants.

STUDENT SENATE: Elizabeth Stewart, Patricia Jones, Yvonne Anderson, Faye Carmichael, Betty Ray Brown, Jane Venerble, Bob Couch, Carolyn Downs, Ann Ratliff.

CHIEF JUSTICE

ANNE ELISE BERRY

STUDENT COURT

The Student Court is the Judicial section of the Student Government Association designed to help keep the honor code and problems related to broken regulations in hand on our campus. It's no fun to be a member of the court and to have to decide the results of the cases. So many factors must be considered. It is the duty of the justices to understand and help the students who have broken regulations. A committee made up of members of the administration and the faculty works with the Court in making its decisions.

As we look back at all the work that went into this year's Montage—the rush of appointments for class pictures at the first of school, the many hours of planning that went into a new and successful Elite Night, the hundreds of takes and retakes of photographs, the thought behind the copy, and the out-of-town trips and letters for the ad section—we recall all these headaches, but thrill in the end when the yearbook is produced. We hope that in the years to come the students will pick up their annuals often and recall all the memories of those glorious years at A.C. —especially those recorded in the 1958 MONTAGE.

ALABAMIAN STAFF

"Wanted: ALABAMIAN members. No experience needed. You are offered splendid opportunities in news and feature reporting, headline writing, photography, circulation, advertising, makeup, typing, and proof-reading. Contact editor."

Approximately sixty Alabama College students responded to this herald to direct their efforts toward a more informative as well as entertaining bi-monthly student newspaper on campus.

The ALABAMIAN, an important element in voicing student opinion, featured the pro's and con's of prominent controversial issues in which Alabama College students were actively interested.

Special effort was given by the staff to give up-to-date and immediate prominent news, as with the publishing of the paper immediately following Elite Night and College Night. A new feature of the ALABAMIAN was the popular "Co-ed of the Month" feature story.

The ALABAMIAN, a member of the Associated Collegiate Press, strived to raise its ACP National honor rating from second class to first, and it rated honorable mention from judges at the Pi Delta Epsilon national convention held at Cornell University.

DR. J. R. WHITE, Speaker

RELIGIOUS EMPHASIS WEEK

During the week, students had an opportunity to chat with Dr. White

PRESIDENT

CLARA JEAN CASON

THE RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

The Religious Council is made up of representatives from the student denominational organizations and a faculty adviser.

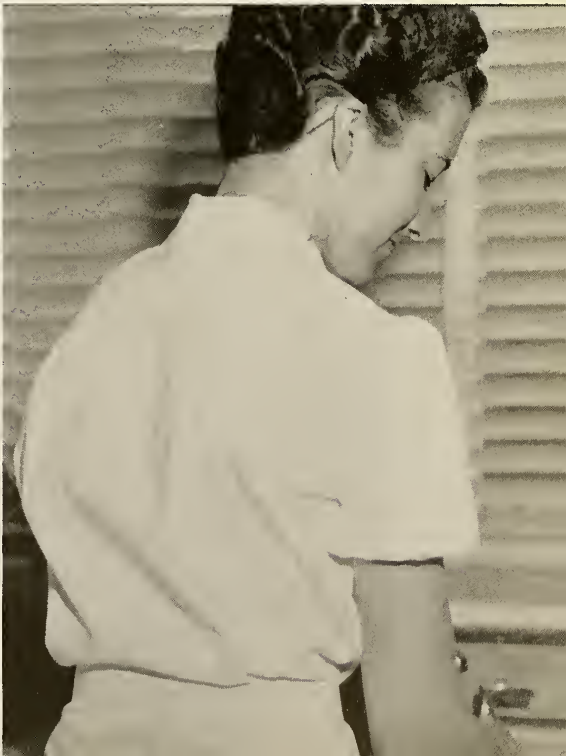
The purpose of this group is to promote a closer relationship between the students and the church of their choice and to stimulate the religious activities on campus.

One of the main activities of this group is to sponsor Religious Emphasis Week. This year Religious Emphasis was held November 18-20. "A Thermometer vs. a Thermostat" proved to be a stimulating theme for the week. Dr. J. R. White, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Montgomery was the speaker for convocation and counselor for the week. The Alabama College Chorale and Choir presented a lovely program of music for the convocation programs.

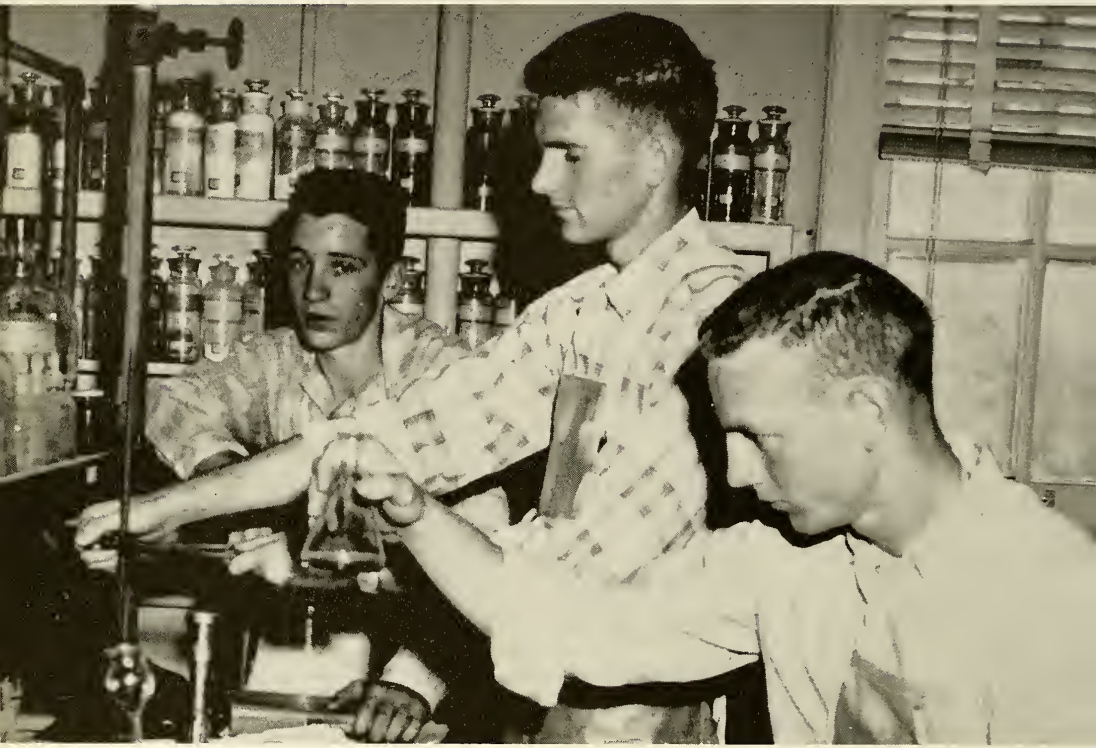
A discussion group was held during the week to discuss things said in convocation and other religious issues.

THE RELIGIOUS COUNCIL MEMBERS: Elizabeth Stewart, Margaret Ann Shotts, Ann Elise Berry, Ann Ellis, Lanell Harwell, Lou Wilson, Amalia Epps.

DEPARTMENTS



PHYSICAL SCIENCE



PHYSICAL SCIENCE

Did you know that Alabama College has graduates in research laboratories as well as doctors' offices and medical laboratories all over the U.S.? These are former chemistry majors from our school. Many have entered the field of medicine from Pre-medicine curriculum which is a part of the training received.

Courses are offered in General Chemistry and General Physics, as well as the more advanced courses of Organic chemistry, Qualitative and Quantitative Analysis and advanced physics for students studying to become medical technicians, research chemists, dieticians or science teachers.

Chemistry students taking advantage of the extensive training offered and the abundant laboratory equipment available for experimentation are well prepared to make their contribution toward the advancement of science in this new atomic age.

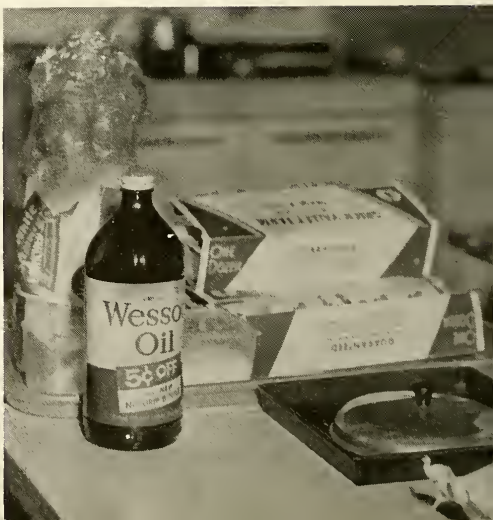
Interesting classes are offered in Chemistry—Organic Chemistry, "Qual" and "Quan."

Mr. Kennerly demonstrates in a Physics class.

HOME ECONOMICS

The Home Economics Department offers many opportunities to any student interested in homemaking, whether as a major or non-major. There are courses offered in clothing and textiles, family relations and child development, home management, foods and nutrition, housing and household equipment. The practical experience at the Nursery School and the Home Management House, together with the delightful days of practice teaching, all make for an enjoyable life as a Home Economics major. There are numerous fields into which the graduates enter —teaching, as home demonstration agents, dietetics, retail economics, and homemaking.

The Ivol Spafford Club, made up of Home Economics majors, sponsor the Ten Best Dressed girls at the annual Fashion Show each spring. This year, the members together with the Home Economics Department were host for "Open House" in which varied table settings and center pieces were presented, economical meal planning, correct methods of preparing and serving foods, cake decorations, and displays of fabrics were presented in the Home Economics Department, Block Hall.



Individual instruction is given in cooking classes.

REFINISHING CLASS

These girls are working hard to get that suit to fit just right!

Don't let it burn, girls!

BIOLOGY

The Biology Department offers various courses in both the areas of Botany and Zoology. These courses include Bacteriology, Anatomy, Physiology, Embryalagy, Histology, Genetics, and Field Biology, as well as the introductory courses which are designed primarily for the non-major.

Opportunities for the Biology major include teaching, public health, medical technology, and research, or the student may wish to continue working toward an advanced degree in specialized interest fields. Pre-professional requirements in the field of Biology may be satisfied, including the Pre-medicine curriculum.

Each Alabama College student has available to him adequate classroom and laboratory facilities for all courses offered in the Department. Every biology major or minor has the opportunity to become members of the Biology Club. The Biology Department is also affiliated with the national honorary fraternity, Beta Beta Beta.

Wonder if things are more interesting when seen through a microscope???

Dr. Shorp seems to be very interested in something???

This Biolagy major looks as if she's having fun, doesn't she???

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

"What's your major?" "Why, B.A., of course," is the answer that many Alabama College students are giving. They are prouder than ever of their department this year for many reasons. Its enrollment is higher than ever before; it has new and more complex equipment which use will better prepare its students for entering the professional world; and the department has included new courses, such as accounting, marketing, public finance, advertising, salesmanship, purchasing, and business law in addition to the standard secretarial administration courses.

The Business Administration students have organized their own departmental Club and the students plan and sponsor programs throughout the year which not only create interest among the majors but also offer opportunities for the students to meet prominent men in various business fields.

An outstanding event sponsored by the Business Administration Department is an annual luncheon participated in by a guest speaker, visitors, and students.

A class in Business Machines.

A class in shorthand.

SPEECH

THE Speech Department is one of the few departments on campus which is able to benefit each student on campus. Courses are offered in four major fields of speech—Speech Correction, Drama and Interpretation, Radio and Television, and Rhetoric and Public Address.

The Speech Correction majors have a wonderful opportunity to put into practice all the knowledge they have gained in the newly organized Speech and Hearing Clinic. Not only are the "majors" benefited by this area of speech, any student on campus may have speech therapy, if he is in need of it, free of charge.

The Drama department gives to every student the opportunity to participate in any phase of the theatre. A student may write scripts, direct plays, be stage manager, act, work on staging, lighting, costuming, or properties, and make-up committees. Because all these crews are so necessary and so many people are required to carry on the work of the crews every student has a chance to participate.

"Radio Station WRSD, the Voice of Alabama College" is operated by the Speech department and many students work there as engineers, announcers, and program directors. Any student may take part in the activities of the Radio Station.

The Debate team, debate trips, and discussion tournaments provide the student with even more experiences in the field of speech.

Zeta Phi Eta and The National Collegiate Players are honorary fraternities sponsored by the Speech Department at Alabama College.

The children in the Speech Clinic have fun along with studies and speech correction classes.

EDUCATION

The Department of Education at Alabama College is constantly striving to improve its program of teacher training. This department operates on the philosophy that people learn best when they have a need for learning. Therefore, we are connecting the theory of education with its practice as it grows out of student teaching in the Laboratory School.

Through a cooperative arrangement with the county Board of Education, the department uses as a laboratory the public schools of Montevallo. These include an elementary school, to which a kindergarten is attached, and a high school that is fully accredited. They afford opportunities for classroom observation and participation, with experienced teachers to direct student teaching.

During the past two years the Education Department has been able to offer training and guidance in the area of Audio-visual machines.

The Alabama Childhood Education Association and the ASEA are clubs to which those interested in elementary and secondary education belong.

A well equipped Nursery School provides for the growth and development of these children.

Practice Teaching is such fun????

Wonder where these girls could be going???? Maybe to the Laboratory School to do some teaching.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

The Social Science Department, familiar to everyone with its little "headquarters" at the corner of the campus, includes many fields of study—economics, geography, history, political science, social science, social work and sociology.

Whatever courses students in this field have taken—from freshman history, specialized history, heavy group and case work or writing reports for social science and "econ" classes, feel that they have gained something important—the knowledge of human relations which has become very important in the present complex world.

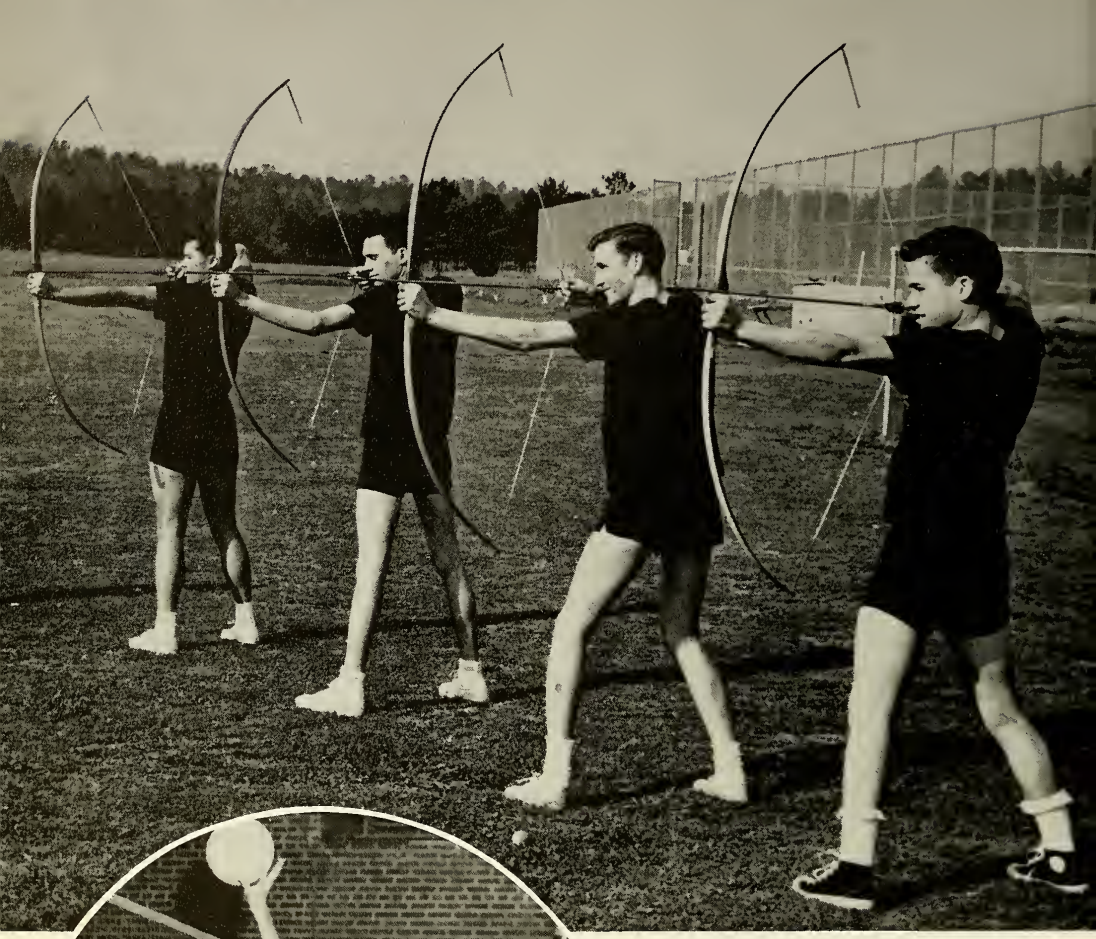
The colorful events sponsored by various divisions of the department—International Relations Club parties, social workers' annual Christmas boxes and many informal department parties — bind the entire department together with a typical Alabama College atmosphere.

The chief coordinator of the department, Dr. John B. Walters, showed his remarkable ability as a teacher, adviser and friend to all in being recently appointed as the acting dean of men students. We take our "hats-off" to Dr. Walters.

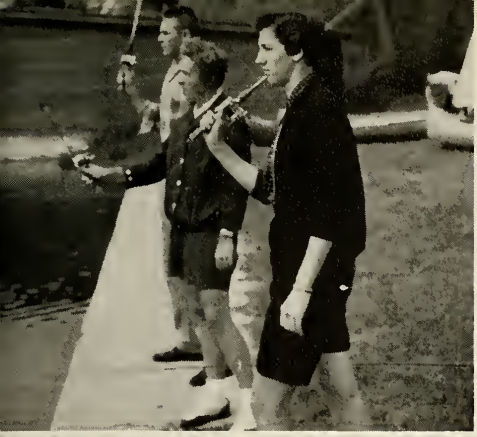
Mrs. Whatley is telling someone about her interesting marriage course, sounds inviting!

The customs of other people are of interest to all students.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION



Everyone enjoys fun and the physical education department at A.C. is the one to help you have it. Swimming, canoeing, golf, tennis, modern dance, and camping are just a few of the courses offered. Majors graduate with excellent opportunities for careers while non-majors enjoy sports more because of their increased skill. For the boys, baseball, football, and basketball are being added.



Miss Collins instructs a class in Casting.

How about a canoe ride???

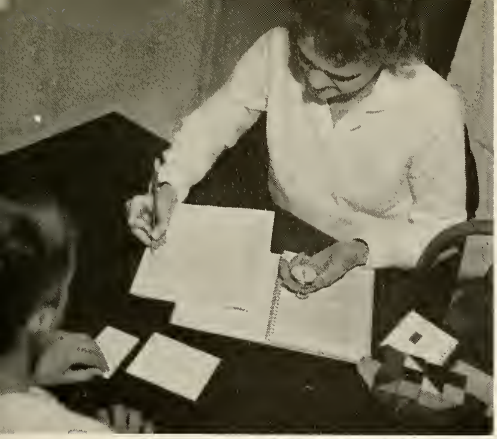
Strike Three!! You're out!

PSYCHOLOGY

KING HOUSE

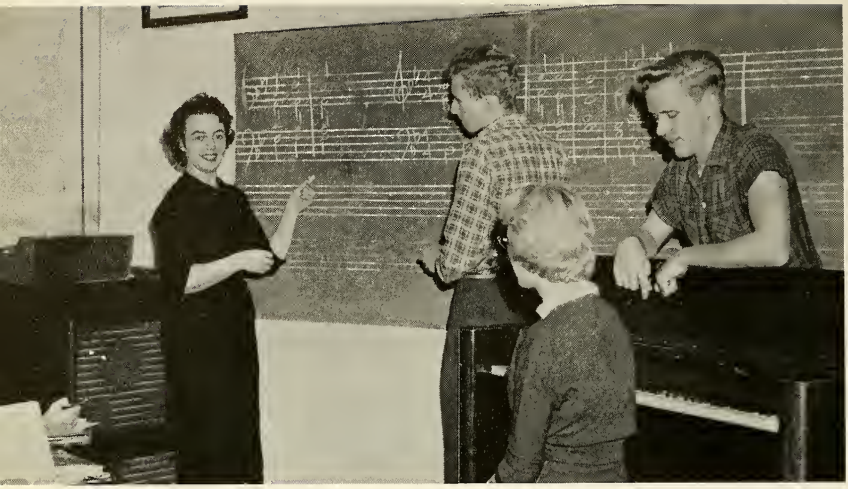
One of the first things a student realizes in his study of psychology at Alabama College is that it is among the broadest of fields. It's content applies to all other fields — not just to psychology itself — and whatever a student's major, he will find that taking some psychology courses will prove both interesting and applicable.

Among the fields of psychology in which both general and advanced courses are offered are: experimental, testing, personality, abnormal, child and adolescent, social, clinical and general. In the field of experimental psychology, students gain a basic knowledge of various psychological experiments. Students in psychology of personality and counseling and guidance make revealing discoveries which are useful in better adjustment of themselves and understanding the actions of others. Correlated with their classroom and lab work, field trips offer psychology students first hand impressions of professional psychologists at work in various institutions and organizations.



Testing Classes in Psychology

MUSIC



Calkins Hall, nested among giant oak trees on front campus, opens its French doors not only to students in the School of Music but to any other interested student on campus.

Anyone familior with Colkins could probobly tell that the enrollment doubled this year by listening to the strains of lyric sopranos practicing scoles ond piano majors diligently working.

These hours of hard work paid off when the performing orgonizotions of Chorale (Lodies Choir), Mixed Choir, Opera, Chamber Music, Brass Choir, Woodwind Choir, ond Two Piano Ensemble presented their thirty-five full recitals and concerts on campus.

ALABAMA COLLEGE CHORALE

Those students who toured with the Chorale to Mobile, Tallahassee, and Birmingham and with the Mixed Choir did not see the world as the Navy does, but the fun of last minute stuffing of music in lockers and grabbing sack lunches is still fresh in their memories.

The College-Church-Community sponsored "Messiah" and it proved very successful for its second year.

A stepping-stone in the growth of the Music Department was laid with the enrollment of its first graduate student in the School of Music.

ART

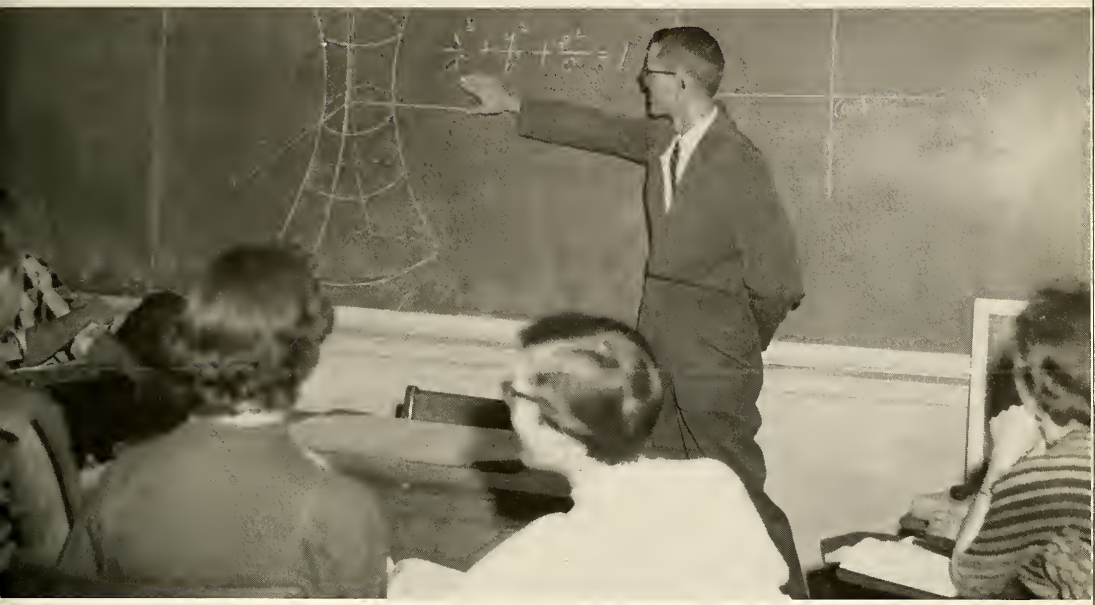
The Alabama College Art Department is a point of departure from which students may move to a better understanding of art as an ever-changing, yet always valid means of expression.

This department not only encompasses the offices and classrooms on second floor Comer, but also a "pot" shop on the side of PE Hill. The work of the student is directed rather than dictated and the classes are informal and small so that the students may have individual instruction.

Background in art history as well as aesthetic appreciation and the stimulation of creative thought are the objectives in courses such as: basic design, interior decoration, stage design, lettering, commercial design, painting, life drawing from a live model, fashion design, ceramics, mechanical drawing, crafts and three-dimensional design.

To augment the regular curricular, the art department brings films, lecturers and exhibitions from all sections of the U.S.

MATHEMATICS



The mathematics department, under the direction of Professor Richard C. Anderson, offers the students of Alabama College a wide variety of mathematical subjects. In addition to a curriculum designed for mathematics majors, the department also offers those math courses required of many pre-professional students of engineering, medicine, dentistry, medical technology, chemistry, business administration, accounting, and law.

There are few fields of study today on the college level that do not require at least a year of college mathematics, and in the study of sciences, the higher the level of study, the greater the need for higher mathematics.

With the tremendous increased national demand for skilled mathematicians for colleges and universities, for business, for industry, and for government service, Alabama College along with other top-flight institutions of higher learning is presently making plans to offer graduate work in mathematics.

ENGLISH

"What courses does your English Department offer?" "Tons of course," is our reply. In addition to the required freshman composition and sophomore literature—which includes studies in poetry, short stories and novels—courses which will make you want to explore more advanced courses are offered. Perhaps you lean toward poetry—take your pick of Shakespeare, Chaucer, Milton, and other such courses. Or perhaps you'll want creative writing or journalism. Beneficial especially to theatre students we find the superb drama courses.

Whether your professional call is that of writer, teacher, journalist or participant in other literary professions, you'll find educational as well as esthetic value in choosing courses offered by our English Department at Alabama College.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

"Amos," "amas," "amot" may sound like Greek to you but to students who have have Latin these words are quite familiar. Similarly students in the Foreign Language Department converse and exchange familiar words and phrases in German, French, and Spanish, the courses offered by the department.

Students are urged to learn as much as possible about the history, art, literature, customs, the present systems of government and other phases of Latin American life.

The foreign students are an important part of Alabama College life, for it is only through contact with them that North American students may obtain first-hand knowledge of other countries. It is interesting as well as wonderful to note that for the first time this year there are foreign men as well as women students.

NOLDS HALL

MISS ALABAMA COLLEGE

The highest honar given to a student on our campus is that of being selected MISS ALABAMA COLLEGE. The girl is selected by popular vote of the student body and is one whom the students feel the most representative student in personality and achievement. Miss Lois Swindal was selected this year—one can readily see why after once seeing her jubilant spirit and winning smile. Her outstanding record and leadership have proven how deserving she is of the honor of being chosen to represent us as MISS ALABAMA COLLEGE.

LOIS

ELITE NIGHT

A very successful change in Elite Night this year was the decision to have some prominent personality select the top beauties. All campus organizations were asked to sponsor candidates for the beauty section. Fifteen girls of the many who were sponsored, were chosen by judges during the Elite Night performance. Later, these were sent to Dave Garroway and he chose the TOP BEAUTIES for the 1958 MONTAGE beauty section.

Senior Elite, Who's Who, and Miss Alabama College, and class favorites were selected by the usual method.

MISS SUE BEDGOOD

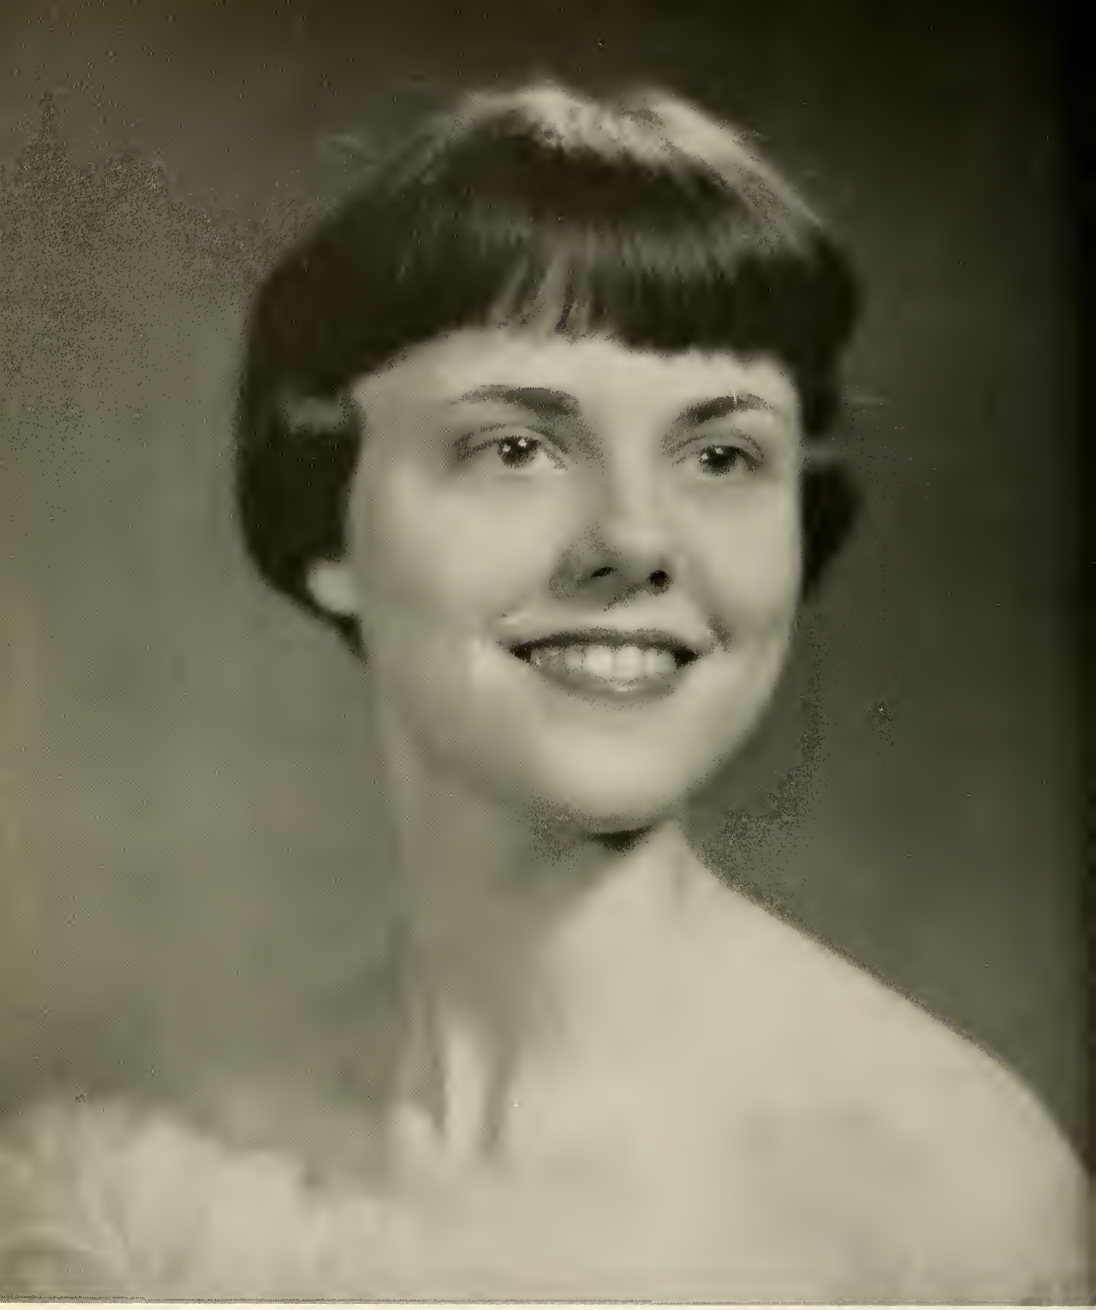
A freshman voice major from Montgomery, Alabama, Sue spends her spare moments working with various campus activities, and making friends all along the way while dorm-hopping.

MISS BETTY BOWDON

Betty, from Calera, Alabama, and a freshman majoring in Secretarial Science, likes to spend leisure moments talking with other students in the Tea House and taking walks along the President's Drive at the end of the day.

MISS JENNIE COTNEY

Jennie, a School Music major from Roanoke, Alabama, is usually seen rushing back ond forth to Calkins, which she fondly calls her 'second home.' At other times she may be found serving on the social committee functions, or serving os associate justice of the student court.

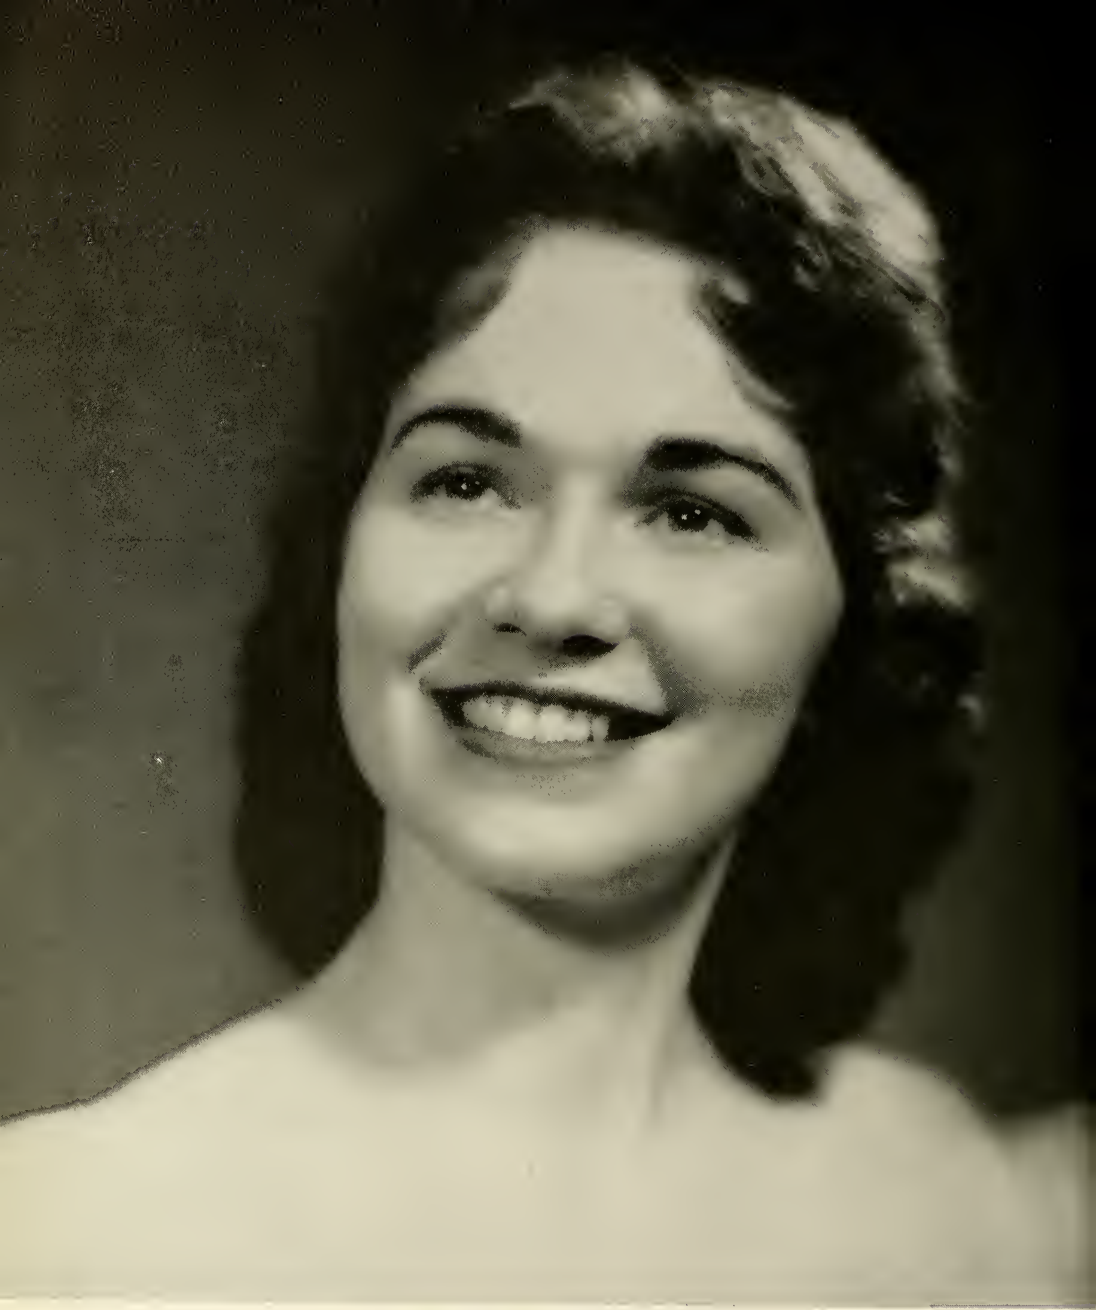


MISS GIBBS DANIEL

Gibbs, a senior speech theropy major from Clayton, Alabama, though spending most of her time giving therapy in the speech clinic, may be found working hard in the different phases af the College Theatre.

MISS JACKIE INMAN

A junior Business Administration major from Dacena, Alabama, Jackie can usually be found in the midst of a bridge game or in the depths of the swimming pool, if not out on the tennis courts.



MISS KAREN MULLINS

Though especially fond of modern dancing, versatile Karen, a sophomore Vocational Home Economics major from Enterprise, Alabama, adores to cook, as well as play tennis and softball.

COLLEGE NIGHT

"College Night is more than the sum of several weeks' activity; it is the embodiment of teamwork, loyalty, and devotion to Alabama College." College Night productions by the Purple and Gold sides are a part of Alabama College's annual Homecoming activities held during the weekend in February nearest George Washington's birthday. It is held at this time each year because some 39 years ago, skits were produced in the college dining room by the women students in observance of Washington's birthday. Since then College Night has grown into 2 full scale music, art, drama productions of three nights playing to packed Palmer auditorium audiences. The plays presented by the student body divided into two sides are student written, directed, and produced.

PURPLE PRODUCTION

The Purple production, "The Itch to Hitch or Wives by the Fives," was set in 1850 in a Mormon community in Utah. The plot evolves around an old Mormon, Gabe Bridger, and his five wives. Gabe tries to convince Priddy Meek, a young drummer who drifts into the community, that "married life is o grand way of living," especially when five wives are allowed. A delightful musical production along with the humorous incidents made for o Purple victory.

GOLD PRODUCTION

The Gold production "The Benfords are my Kinfolks," was essential a comedy sprinkled with tragedy, showing the ruinous effects of a social climbing woman who empties the coffers and smokehouse of her store-keeping husband to help her kinfolks, a hopeless poor-relations.

"Please, Mr. Daniel, don't take our sack of meal!"

SPORTS

Anything from archery to football—AC has it. We've always had active intramurals in volley ball, softball, and basketball, but this year with our being co-educational we not only have football intramurals, BUT we now have intercollegiate basketball and baseball teams! Basketball games were played with Birmingham Southern and Howard and baseball with a 10 game schedule (the new baseball field is practically finished). We have sports facilities galore suited to every type interest—archery range, softball field, basketball courts, 10 tennis courts, indoor-outdoor swimming, golf (and a brand new golf course in addition to the older course) and volleyball courts. However, we must not forget our 28 acre lake providing fishing and canoeing fun.

DRIVES WEEK

Drives Week on the campus of Alabama College is an annual event promising to the students and faculty an opportunity to give to their favorite charity. The Drives Week Committee decides on the various activities to be held during the week so that the students enjoy pleasures while donating.

Getting the week under way, a parade with band and majarettes is held. The Sociology Club has the County Fair; the faculty and students are rivels in a volleyball and basketball game with a cake walk held during time outs; a car wash is held. Another activity used this year was a party in Napier with admission prices going to the charities. Skit night and seniar auction, with the seniors selling their service is always a favorite event.

Probably the most popular activity is Surpressed Desires Day when the students do whatever happens to be their hearts desire—at a price of course. A list of charitible organizations is voted on and the largest amounts goes to the three top ones. However, the others also are given a donation.

TUTWILER DORMITORY

Our Senior reign is ended—and with its ending came a heart full of memories that we will cherish always. We've worked hord for four years to obtain the coveted honors which are synonymous with being a Senior. Founder's Day, caps and gowns, life in Tutwiler Hall, marching, Croak Doy, ond Graduation Day, all just words to us before, have now become memories.

With our diplomas in hand and a mixture of sadness and joy in our hearts, we leave—more mature; much wealthier in the richness of friends and experiences than we were four years oga. We go from this place better prepared to contribute our individuol shares toward making the world a better place to live.

This Junior yeor's excitement and the students far flung imagination excel those two previous years beyond all doubts. We've finolly reached the stoge on campus of "being o Junior!" What fun we've had. Who but this class would ever muster enough courage to be constant hecklers of our honorable Seniors? We've known the satisfaction of a highly successful Junior weekend, our third joyous College Night and all the boistrous excitement of election time when our class became the first to usher into office a male student for student government president. Now, we've gone through our day of endurance, Crook Day, which was a trial to prove our ability as seniors, which we hope to be next year, — and we truly showed ourselves, the Juniors approved.

Housemother, MRS. POSEY

Your sophomore year may signify to you at first just another step toward the coveted goal of senior; but when you actually become a sophomore you are hit with the realization that it is one the most wonderful years of your college career.

Your second year in college is a very busy one, because sophomores do all the jobs that freshmen don't know how to do and seniors and juniors don't have time to do. Then there's always that studying that must be done . . . . you'll not forget the midnight oil that was burned studying for that Lit. test.

Being a sophomore brings to mind a number of things. For the men it is the first full year in Napier. For the women it is the fun of planning and attending compus parties. . . . especially the Freshman-Sophomore Weekend! It's the joy of really being a part of College Night and working hard for that Gold or Purple Victory. It's the excitement and the joy of seeing Hanson's flag waving proudly over the fieldhouse.

By way of definition you might say that your sophomore year is a year of bull sessions and gab fests, a year of parties and studying and most of all a year of working and ploying as friends and as a class.

FRESHMAN CLASS

On September 15, the Freshman Class of 1957-'58 starmed the campus of Alabama College. This life as a student was a new and thrilling, thaugh somewhat frightening, experience for the approximately three hundred freshmen.

Their arrival and distribution of "belangings" in Napier and Main was fallowed by an excited week of freshman orientation and registratian. All the "free time" of this new class was filled with drinking cokes at the Tea House, becoming acquainted with Palmer, the Field House, the Library and ather buildings on the campus.

One of the most memorable events in the life of any resident of Main is the weary blast of the fire whistle at one o'clock in the marning and the feel of the freezing tin as she whisks down the fire escape.

The first class organization came in November with Freshman rallies and elections. At Christmas the Freshman class had its first recognition by upper classes when they participated in the Step-Sing on "Tut" lawn.

"Stap Day" and "Suppressed Desires Day" were two unexpected events for them. Althaugh the Freshmen could fight aff the Senior's marching until second semester, they were not sa lucky with the Saphamores. Taking advantage of "Suppressed Desires Day" these came chanting their theme song "Wake up Little Freshmen," in the wee hours of the night.

The Freshman year could well be labeled as one of "new and varied experiences."

NAPIER HALL

DEDICATION OF NAPIER

On October 12, 1957, Alabama College celebrated its sixty-first anniversary. Highlight of the day was the dedication of the new men's dormitory to Dr. Napiner, Deon Emeritus, Alabama College. Dr. Phillips, President of Alabama College, formolly dedicated the building to Dr. Napier, one who well deserved the honor for his many years of faithful service to the college and town. Dean Napier expressed his gratitude and humbly thanked the people for the high honor. A reception for Dr. and Mrs. Napier was given after the dedication, in NAPIER HALL.

COLLEGE THEATRE

The College Theatre is an intregal part of the speech department purposely existing as an extension of the various college departments and as an agency for education in the theatre arts, training the students of Alabama College culturally and socially.

Four plays are produced each year as part of the major program in Palmer Hall auditorium, presenting as varied a theatre experience as possible by including scripts of different periods, countries, styles, and types. From the beginning the aim of the theatre has been the personal development of many individual students as possible, rather than vocational training for the few.

Two well-equipped theatres provide exceptional opportunities for student training in all phases of dramatic art. Alabama College students are, through the College Theatre, offered experiences in acting, lighting, scenery, makeup and wardrobing as well as the business end of the program. The Theatre Council is the all-student production group of the College Theatre with a present membership of 36.

The Free Theatre, directed by Speech and Dramatic majors and any student with unusual ability and interest, tries the untried by encouraging playwriting and by providing complete training for the future teacher who will direct school dramatic programs.

The College Theatre sponsors an honorary fraternity on campus. National Collegiate Players—in addition to two special theatre events each year: playing host to the annual conference of the Thespian Societies of Alabama High Schools and sponsoring this year for the seventeenth year, The Annual W. H. Trumbauer Drama Festival of Alabama College.

The Alabama College Theatre playbill for 1957-'58 included "Life With Father," "Medea," "Tartuffe," and "The Lady's Not For Burning." These were directed by Dr. Andrew Kochman.
